Dear Esteemed Colleagues,

It is a great honor to address you today as the President of EUROSAI and the Israeli State Comptroller at the 16th ASOSAI Assembly here in the vibrant city of New Delhi. We are also privileged to have our delegation participate in this assembly and contribute to our collective mission.

I extend my heartfelt gratitude to our hosts, the Supreme Audit Institution of India, and its esteemed Auditor General, Mr. Girish Chandra Murmu, for their gracious hospitality in organizing this significant event. I also want to express special thanks to the Chair of ASOSAI, the Supreme Audit Institution of Thailand, and its distinguished Auditor General, Mr. Chakkrit Parapantakul, for their leadership and unwavering dedication to our shared mission. Additionally, I wish to acknowledge the Supreme Audit Institution of China, the ASOSAI Secretariat, and its Auditor General, Mr. Yang Xiaodu, for their crucial role in supporting ASOSAI's activities.

As we gather to explore the theme "Digital Public Infrastructure and Gender Divide - Issues of Inclusion and Accessibility," we are presented with a unique opportunity to reflect on our current practices and envision the future of our auditing community.

In that spirit, I am delighted to share with you a glimpse of what lies ahead:

We have prepared a special video presentation that takes us on a journey into the future, illustrating how EUROSAI envisions its role over the next millennium.

So, without further ado, please fasten your seat belts as we embark on this exciting journey together. Let's explore the future and envision how our collaborative efforts can shape the world of auditing for the next 1,000 years.

Thank you, and I look forward to an inspiring and productive assembly.
